

FOOT-BALL

PORTSMOUTH TEAM DEFEATED THE SAILORS FROM THE MON-TANA.

A football team representing this city defeated the team from the U. S. S. Montana at the public playgrounds on Wednesday afternoon in a very close and interesting game. It was played in a gale of wind and a temperature that made it hard to get any speed and very uncomfortable for the big crowd of spectators.

The sailors had the much heavier team, but the local team were very fast, and by fast work broke up the sailors' play before they were fairly started. The game was won in the last three minutes of play in the last period, when Weaver intercepted a forward pass and ran to the twenty-yard line. The local team failed to make a gain on two rushes and Charles Brackett went back and with a bad cross wind kicked a pretty goal. Neither side were able to score and the game finished with Portsmouth the winner 3 to 0.

The work of the local team considering the lack of practice, was very good. Brackett, Driscoll, Weaver and Pilgrim playing noticeable games, while for the sailors Hoffman, Brandon and McClellan were all the time in the game. Osborn and Walsh retired from the game on account of injuries.

The lineup and score:

MEYER WOULD SAVE COAL COST

Seattle, Oct. 12.—Secretary of the

AMERICAN GIRL AND QUEEN MOTHER

Queen Alexandra

Bessie Abbott

A REMARKABLE composition entitled "Gardenia" is at present the sensation of London musical circles, and as a result of the wide attention it has created its author, the famous Signor Francis Paolo Tosti, has been honored with an extraordinary commission by Queen Alexandra, widow of King Edward VII. A short time ago Signor Tosti was one of the privileged few present when Maestro Mascagni and Miss Bessie Abbott went through a music rehearsal of "Gardenia," the new grand opera which will have its first production in America in November under the direction of Liebler & Co. Tosti was so pleased with Mascagni's music and with Miss Abbott's voice that he composed and dedicated to the young American singer a new song called "Gardenia" in recognition of the lady's partiality to that flower. "Gardenia" has now reached a popularity equal to that of the most successful of Tosti's previous works and has served to call new notice to both Miss Abbott and the composer. Queen Alexandra has taken occasion to compliment Miss Abbott on being able to inspire so charming a work and at the same time has asked Signor Tosti to write for her the music of a new song, which it is her desire should become a sort of secondary national anthem. She has selected as the title "God Save Queen Alexandra." It is reported from London that King Edward's relief is strongly inclined to sink into relative obscurity as "the queen mother" and desires nothing so much as to retain her title of Queen Alexandra. Recently a firm of book publishers, which prepared a book of Common Prayer, in which the form was given as a prayer "for the queen mother," received an intimation that the phraseology was distasteful, and the entire edition was a loss. The commission which Tosti has received as a result of dedicating "Gardenia" to Miss Bessie Abbott is not without precedent. Before King Edward succeeded to the throne he had written for him an anthem, "God Save the Prince of Wales," to relieve the monotony of "God Save the Queen."

Navy, George Van L. Meyer who is inspecting naval stations, has been in Seattle. Secretary Meyer put himself on record as favoring the purchase of Pacific coast coal stations provided a coal can be found that will stand the naval test. Such a test will be made soon. Secretary Meyer said: "It would save the department half the cost of coal if it could be bought on the Pacific coast instead of being brought around from the Atlantic. He inspected the Puget Sound navy yard. The United States naval collier Saturn sailed for San Francisco with a load of Pacific coal mined in the mountains near Seattle, to be used on one of the cruisers of the Pacific fleet in a test for comparison with the steaming qualities of the Eastern coal which is now used exclusively by the navy. If the coal carried by the Saturn comes up to the naval requirements, the government will use it on all vessels on the Pacific coast.

AT ASSOCIATION HALL

Splendid Concord to Be Given There Next Tuesday Evening

Next Tuesday evening Mrs. Gladys Perkins Fogg, soprano, and Mr. Milo E. Benedict, pianist, assisted by Mr. Burdett Willis, flutist, all of Boston, will be heard at Association Hall in a splendid program of ballads and other music, both popular and classical.

Of the soprano and pianist, the Boston Times, a society paper, a year ago said: "The first of three musical mornings to be given at the Tulleries, by Gladys Perkins Fogg and Milo E. Benedict took place Nov. 27, at 11 o'clock. A most delightful program was presented which gave old, old compositions which were very alluring in theme and quite new to the most faded concert goer. Miss Fogg as in splendid voice and her clear, lyric notes were a joy to the waiting listener. Miss Fogg's personality is, of itself, a lesson. Would that the whole feminine world might be as sweet, as unassuming, so set in tune."

A short time later the Boston Times published another article, as follows: "The last musical morning given by Gladys P. Fogg and Milo Benedict at the Tulleries was quite as charming as the two which preceded it. The program arrangement was particularly felicitous and gave many lovely numbers. Miss Fogg gave Strauss songs, Drexel's lovely Es hat die warme Fruhlingsnacht, Grieg's Sun-bath song, Henschel's Spring, so full of musical abandon and sprightliness, two beautiful songs by Milo Benedict, By the River and the Peewee's song, which gave a wonderful chance for the singer to show the dainty delicacy of her purely lyrical voice so bird like and so soothingly sweet and Chantade's Lete was followed by Rossini's Una Voce Poco Fa from the Barber of Seville which proved Miss Fogg's versatile vocal powers and her rare diction. Mr. Benedict's numbers were quite in the singer's mood, a sort of intensified echo of the voice passages which were keyed so wonderfully in tune. Debussy's Deux Arabesques need especial mention, also Grieg's beautiful imaginative and characteristically Oriental, Aus dem Gartner and Au Revoir, a duet by the player, himself, called for great applause and found immediate favor. There was a large audience of society's best followers."

THAT EARLY TRAIN

Portsmouth Should Have It For More Than One Reason

The latest report in railroad circles is that the Boston and Maine railroad management will issue another time table before Jan. 1, 1911, and that some changes in the train service will be made.

If this report is true, the board of trade should make some attempt to induce the railroad to give us an earlier train than 9.45 a. m. from Boston. It is known that commercial men are handicapped to a great extent by the train service and, in order, to do a day's business in this city they are obliged to put in the night before in this city to accomplish their work.

Another important matter which the railroad should consider in connection with an earlier train is the fact that many of the crew, when on liberty go into Boston, providing they can report early in the morning, as they have done in the past summer. With no early train, they cannot take the railroad to any extent, so they cannot get back aboard ship on time when on a short furlough only.

Jones Men Ready to Meet Navy Men to Arrange Contest

In reply to the communication bearing the signatures of Dan Campbell and A. N. Wagner, of the U. S. S. Teponesta in which they issue a challenge at quill tapping to the team of the Jones bottling works, we would state that we considered our men as the challenged team and accordingly it should fall to us to arrange the terms under which the contest should be held. The only part of your communication of Oct. 12 that looks good to us is the side purse of $25.00. From recent paper talk your team was ready to pitch quills available to us, now you specify what kind you want to handle in a contest. While it is impracticable that a match cannot be pulled off on this side of the river on Sunday, our men are not displaying any white feather and will go after your team at the navy yard providing arrangements can be perfected. A short talk with the manager of our team would no doubt bring this matter to a head. The manager can be seen any week day at the bottling plant, where he would be pleased to meet these undefeated navy men and arrange the contest as soon as possible.

STATE COMMITTEE MEETS

Resolution to Send Special Delivery Letter to Each Delegate Who Attended Convention is Passed by Vote of Nineteen to Five—Fall River Man Suggests Hanging of Committee of Four, Because of Deadlock

Boston, Oct. 13.—It was voted at a special meeting of the Democratic state committee yesterday afternoon to send to every delegate to the state convention a special delivery letter asking him to express his choice on the question of the most available candidate for governor.

The opinions of the delegates will be considered by the convention committee appointed to select a candidate for governor and Chairman MacLeod is of the opinion that it will help to break the deadlock now existing in the committee of four.

The convention committee met yesterday but came to no agreement on the fifth member. Both Crowley of Lowell and Hayes of Springfield, although invited, refused to participate in the meeting of the state committee, claiming that MacLeod, in calling this meeting, was merely attempting to usurp the responsibility put upon the committee of four by the state convention.

Chairman MacLeod called the state committee meeting, believing that it was the only way in which the deadlock in the convention could be broken. Asked by Crowley why he called the meeting of the state committee, MacLeod said that he did so because he was "obliged to fight the subsidized press of Boston."

There were twenty-three members of the state committee present at the meeting. Later on there were thirty-two members who put in an appearance.

Timothy D. Sullivan of Fall River created somewhat of a sensation when he said that if he were "not amenable to the law he would move that a committee be appointed to hang the committee of four because of their failure to agree upon a candidate for governor."

The resolution calling for an expression of opinion from the delegates was passed by a vote of 19 to 5.

The resolution was as follows: "That a special delivery letter be mailed to every regularly elected delegate to the recent state convention, with a special delivery return envelope enclosed addressed to William P. Hayes, secretary of the committee of four having the power to select a candidate for governor, and requesting them to reply immediately, stating their preference for the most available candidate for governor at this time, for the information and the guidance of the committee."

Chairman MacLeod asked permission to make a statement. He said that he would vote against all names suggested for fifth member of the committee without prejudice, believing that this matter should be postponed until after the meeting of the state committee.

This statement on the part of MacLeod was subscribed to by Maynard.

DIX ACCEPTS NOMINATION

Stands Squarely Upon the Rochester Platform

ASSAULTS UPON COURTS

Says Any American of Authority Who Makes Them Should Be Branded as Public Enemy—Sees Danger in New Nationalism Fathomed by "New Apostle of Discard and Dissension"—At Parting of Ways

Thomson, N. Y., Oct. 13.—A large number of prominent Democrats of this state arrived here on a special train to attend the formal notification to John A. Dix of his nomination as the candidate of the party for governor. Wilson Bissell of Buffalo, permanent chairman of the recent convention, made the formal speech of notification.

Mr. Dix made a speech accepting the nomination, in which he set forth the issues of the campaign. He pledged himself to an honest, capable business administration of the state affairs and against wastefulness and extravagance.

"Never before," he said, "has a political party made a more thorough, more straightforward and more complete declaration of its position upon the vital question concerning the people than was done by our party at the recent convention at Rochester. I wish to plant myself squarely upon that platform and upon each and all of its planks."

Mr. Dix discussed upon the various phases of state affairs at length, and continued: "But above all, I resolutely and aggressively take a position against attacks and assaults upon the courts of the country. They are the very bulwarks of our free institutions. Without tribunals in which all men have confidence and from which all men are certain of justice, civilization would cease and anarchy prevail. Any American who, occupying a position of authority, or having the public ear, assaults and attacks our courts—now, as they have always been, the seats of justice and of equity—is to be regarded as a public enemy and should be so branded by every reasonable man."

"Overhauling all these questions, and of most vital importance to the people, is the menace offered to the various institutions of the country by the New Nationalism fathomed and advocated by a new apostle of discord and dissension. We have already had to our cost ample proof of his ability to disturb business, destroy values and create a condition of panic country-wide in its evil effects."

"But if with all that, he is to be permitted to succeed in his campaign to weaken or destroy the powers of the supreme court of the United States, to take over to the central government the powers reserved to the states, to substitute the will of the president for the will of the people as expressed through all the regularly chosen officers of the federal government, and set arbitrary bounds to what any man by ability and enterprise may legitimately secure, then all the sacrifices made by the founders of the republic, all the blood shed for its preservation, will have been in vain, and we shall see in a time of profound peace a dangerous disturber bringing about the destruction of a free people against whom all the forces of the world in arms might have been hurled in vain."

"No question so vital in its consequences has ever been submitted to the people of this state. We have before us now what may be our only opportunity to stay the march of this agent of destruction and to restore to the country at large the business tranquility and peace under which we have grown as has no other country in the history of the world; and to have again the chance to work out without discord or turmoil the other pressing problems presented by our complicated condition of society in such manner as to keep us in the vanguard of the army of progress and to adhere to the fundamental Democratic principle of 'Equality for all and special privileges for none.'"

"In a word, we are at the parting of the ways. If the people of the state place the representatives of the Democratic party in power we shall administer the public affairs as to secure to the citizens of the state of New York, regardless of party, liberty without license, progress without disorder, retrenchment and economy in public expenditures without meanness, and that due respect and regard for constituted authorities which, while assuring to every man the fullest measure of his own rights, shall prevent any encroachment upon or interference with the rights of others."

COLUMBUS DAY PARADE

Forty Thousand Persons Participate in Boston's Celebration

Boston, Oct. 13.—Forty thousand men surged up the slope of Beacon hill for three hours and a half yesterday in a great parade. With all of that great army of marchers, not a single hitch occurred from beginning to end. Those in charge of the parade say 40,000 men passed in review.

Attended as it was by the president, the governor of the state, the mayor of the city, and by the archbishop, and escorted by over 1500 jacks and marines from United States battleships, by a large detachment from the marine corps and the coast artillery, Boston's first celebration of Columbus day took on a national aspect.

Ninety-eight bands blared and boomed. Men of every nationality tramped side by side. Side by side with the Stars and Stripes cracked the silken folds of the flag of the French, of the Irish, of the Italian, of the Portuguese, and even of the Chinese—and all for the man who had discovered the continent which has become their common home.

The Italian section of the parade appealed to the eye and to the ear. Band followed band with perplexing rapidity. Beautifully decorated floats occurred with equally perplexing frequency.

This crisis over, the government fears one on its hands on next Sunday, for the Socialist and Republican members of the cortes have announced that on that day they intend to call for mass meetings throughout the kingdom to celebrate the establishment of a republic in Portugal.

Premier Canalejas admits that the Republican movement is strong, but declares that he will crush with an iron hand any attempt to destroy the monarchy.

Violent clashes are occurring between members of the Catholic club and Republicans.

After he had promised to care for the girl, Loomis, thirty years older than she, so importuned her to marry him that she fled here to escape from him. He followed her and shot her twice.

Thinking he had killed her he shot himself in the neck, the bullet breaking his jaw and tearing his tongue, after which he walked three blocks to the home of a physician. He will recover.

Munich, Oct. 13.—Enrico Caruso's physician says that the singer must abandon his engagements for some time as a consequence of an accident.

In the second act of "Boheme," Caruso attracted much applause and was bowing his acknowledgements when his forehead came in contact with an iron rod which was being used in shifting the scenery for the next act. The singer stepped behind the wings and fell unconscious.

He recovered slowly and insisted upon going on for the third act, through which he sang without the audience being aware of the mishap. An uncommonly thick wig protected the artist's head somewhat.

The police believe that by the arrest of Fenecal they will be able to obtain tangible clues as to the identity of the man who set off a charge of dynamite under the Franklin street bridge.

Fenecal, according to the police, admits having placed under the Foster street bridge a potato with dynamite inside of it. This was given to under the bridge to hear it make a noise.

FRANCE IN GRIP OF BIG STRIKE

Threatens to Tie Up Every Railroad in Country

EIGHTY THOUSAND IDLE

Western Railway Men Ready to Follow Suit of Northern Railway Employees, Who Say They Will Refuse to Work Until Demands Are Granted—Lines Are Now Being Conducted on a Military Basis

Paris, Oct. 13.—With more than 80,000 men already out, the railroad strike is spreading throughout France. Before night many more thousand employees, it is believed, will have quit work unless the officials of the transportation company agree to grant the demands of the men.

The employees of the Northern railway were the first to strike. Resolutions calling for a similar action were soon passed by the men employed on the Western railroad, which is now under state control. It is believed the strike will spread to the eastern railroads of the country and tie up the Paris-Lyon-Mediterranean roads.

The strikers demand a general increase in wages with $1 a day as the minimum wage, a retroactive application of the employees' pension law, monthly and not daily employment, and one day a week off. They declare they will refuse to work unless these demands have been granted.

At a meeting of the central strike committee of the National Railroaders' union it was decided to make the strike nation wide unless the demands are granted at once. The union leaders have requested that the officials of the road call a conference at once, and representatives of the employees will be ready to explain the situation and the alleged injustices to the men.

Military engineers and army men are already taking the places of the strikers, and it is expected that all the roads affected will be put on a military basis. Passenger, freight and mail service is already being seriously hampered by the labor trouble. At the Northern railway station fifteen instead of five hundred trains arrived yesterday.

In putting the roads on a military basis the ministry plan to muster the railroad employees into service, thus subjecting them to military discipline for thirty days. It is feared that this will result in trouble, as the strikers have voted not to respond, basing their refusal on the ground that the law calls for the mobilization of technical employees of the roads only for transportation of troops and materials.

Thousands of men living in the suburbs were unable to get to work yesterday, owing to the trains failing to run, and many had to walk miles. Plans are being prepared for automobile service for the mails, and already the food supply from the outer world is endangered.

Several trains scheduled to handle the mails from Germany have been abandoned, and no attempt made to put on others to take their places. At St. Denis 500 of the 600 engine drivers refused to take their places, while at La Chapelle 90 percent of the employees have joined the strikers.

CUSTOMS BARS LET DOWN

Relief Supplies for Fire Sufferers Will Be Admitted Free

Washington, Oct. 13.—Customs barriers between the United States and Canada have been broken down for donations by Canadians for forest fire sufferers in the northwest. Collector of Customs Johnson at St. Paul was advised by telegraph that Canadian gifts of emergency foods and clothing for the unfortunate may be admitted free as an act of international courtesy.

This action follows advice from Johnson, who has charge of the customs district which embraces the fire-devastated area, reporting that Baudette and the territory for miles around had been burned, several hundred persons had perished in the flames and several thousand had been left homeless and destitute. Canada, the collector reported, is furnishing supplies of all kinds.

VALUABLE TIMBER BURNED

Fifty men, under the direction of Matthew D. McInerney, chief of field division of the forestry service at Denver, arrived by special train and 100 more men have been requested to fight the fire. Fears are expressed for the safety of a score of ranchers.

Needle and Newspaper Aid Him in Good Samaritan Act

New York, Oct. 13.—A bomb that was exploded in connection with the Italian celebration of the anniversary of St. Rocco on Morris avenue removed a portion of the clothing of 17-year-old Giulio Palluto. This was very embarrassing to Palluto and his discomfiture increased when young women and boys made fun of his situation.

Fortunately for him, Dr. Brill of the Lebanon hospital appeared while responding to an ambulance call nearby, and, thinking Palluto had been hurt, went to his aid. Noticing that the young man did not need medical attention but the services of a tailor, and pitying his plight, Brill drew forth the needle with which he generally stitches up unfortunate, obtained a newspaper and with it repaired the damaged garment, whereupon Palluto was able to walk home without the benefit of a flour barrel.

CORPORAL PUNISHMENT

Defined by State Superintendent of Schools in New Jersey

Trouton, N. J., Oct. 13.—State Superintendent of Public Instruction Baxter denies stories to the effect that he had issued an anti-corporal punishment edict. The story, he said, had its origin from a letter forwarded to the principal of the Mahwah school, who requested him to define just what corporal punishment meant.

The principal, being a new teacher in the state, was not acquainted with the New Jersey rules on the subject. In defining the law of corporal punishment, Baxter replied:

Any means of inflicting physical pain, whether with the hand or the rod, or of causing undue physical weariness, is corporal punishment. Standing on one foot, holding down a nail, holding some form of weight with the arm extended, or any similar test of endurance, is corporal punishment.

CHURCH CAMPAIGN IN LABOR'S BEHALF

Decided Stand Is Taken by the Congregational Brotherhood

Boston, Oct. 13.—The most sweeping declaration yet made by an organization affiliated with the Congregational church on the labor question was adopted by the Congregational Brotherhood of America at their meeting in the Park Street church yesterday.

The questions which the labor constituency have contended the churches were dodging were placed before the body and after a unanimous vote which embodied provisions for a campaign to bring these things about so far as the church could and financial assistance was pledged for this purpose, the matter will now be placed before the council whose support the Brotherhood seeks.

JUST FOR "DEVILMENT"

Four Female Autoists Are Said to Have Robbed Farmers

Chicago, Oct. 13.—Mrs. Ralph E. Hayden, wife of a dentist; her mother, Mrs. Mattie Jennings; a sister, Miss Laura Jennings, and Mrs. A. Cresner were taken into custody by detectives in connection with an alleged series of burglaries at the homes of farmers near Crown Point, Ind.

Mrs. Hayden, who was arrested on a fugitive warrant, charging larceny, made a verbal confession, according to detectives, admitting that she and the other women committed the thefts for "devilment" while on an automobile trip to Crown Point.

Between $50 and $75 worth of butter, eggs, apple butter, linen, tableware and vegetables, said to have comprised the property taken from the farmhouses, is said to have been found in Mrs. Hayden's private garage.

Coward Held For Boy's Death

New York, Oct. 13.—Adolph Berg, 21 years old, was arrested on a charge of homicide, accused of being the man who held 12-year-old Charles Fischer in front of him as a shield from a fusillade of shots from the revolver of Henry Greenwald. The boy was killed and Greenwald, when cornered, shot and killed himself.

POOR PORTUGAL

It looks as if the Portuguese revolution will end by England strengthening her hold on that little country. While ostensibly independent, Portugal has had her foreign policy subjected to British oversight, approval and dictation, and been subject to British advice in the matters of home legislation and administration, more number in the few weeks that reparticularly the revenue laws, for a hundred years. This condition began when an English army, under Wellington, freed Portugal from the rule of Napoleon, and British financiers, under the direct oversight of the British government, financed the Portuguese national debt.

Portugal is the most poverty stricken country in western Europe. The area is 40,000 square miles, equivalent to Maine and New Hampshire, plus one county of Massachusetts. The population is approximately 5,500,000, rather more than that of New England at the census of 1900 and probably less than that of New England this year. The public interest bearing debt is $8,000,000, while that of the United States is only $9,000,000. There are also provincial and municipal public debts said to run heavier than those in the United States. In addition to these public burdens, the per capita wealth is only about eleven or twelve per cent. of that in the United States.

Topping all that has been the system of nobility, largely a landed aristocracy, and a peasantry, compelled to pay exorbitant rentals for the privilege of tilling the land, and financially unable to conduct agriculture with modern equipment.

What has precipitated the revolution is said by men in a position to know, to be the increase in the cost of living.

Do you wonder at the revolution? Certain it is that the British will intervene to prevent or suppress general disorder.

What do you suppose will be the result of a strengthening of the British overlordship?

BIRDSEYE VIEWS

A New York Democrat has tried to say a smart thing by remarking that while men are working on full time they are only eating on half time. It sounds like good argument, but it won't bear analysis. The Democratic party, in both state and nation, has been talking about the increased cost of living and left the intilling of remedial measures to the Republicans. Under the last Democratic administration men were working on half time or no time and eating from the hand of Charity.

The world's record for the long distance throwing of a baseball, that had stood for 36 years, was broken at the field day between the Cincinnati and Pittsburg teams in Cincinnati on Sunday, following the game, when Sheldon Lejeune of the Evansville club of the Central league threw the sphere 426 feet, 6 1/4 inches, which is 25 feet 10 3/4 inches better than the old record. The record that has stood for more than a third of a century was made by Tom Hatfield and was 400 feet, 7 1/2 inches.

The anthracite conciliation board, which settles differences of opinion between the anthracite mine workers and operators, is preparing to issue another report upon its work of arbitration. One hundred and ninety-four cases have come before the board since it was created by the anthracite strike commission of 1902. The success of its efforts in the direction of peace is indicated by the fact that 150 of the grievances were presented in the first three years, while only 44 have been presented in the last four years.

AMONG OUR EXCHANGES

Learning About the Railroads
 The appointment of Mr. William J. Cunningham, statistician of the Boston and Albany railroad, to be assistant professor of transportation in the Harvard school of business administration, is a recognition of the trend of railroad management today towards the closest study of economics. Prominent railroad officials are following the school's operations. There never was a time when the railroads were dissecting their operating figures and expenses as they are today, nor a time when the need of so many economies was apparent. There has grown up in the railroads more than ever before the demands for the practical statistical expert. He who can analyze railroad figures and dissect the expenses involved in operating a railroad has become a necessity and the Harvard graduate school of business administration is seeking to turn out men who are going to supplement their college education by practical railroad service and prepare themselves for this kind of work.—Boston Transcript.

The Campaign

The campaign of education having as its end a great Republican triumph at the polls in New Hampshire on November 8, is progressing well. Many rallies have been held in the time that has intervened since the Republican state convention and dates have been arranged for a large number in the few weeks that re-

A TIMELY TOPIC

BY DENNIS A. MCCARTHY,
 Associate Editor Sacred Heart Review

Reason for the Parochial School

IT seems to be admitted on all sides that the lack of moral and religious instruction in our school curriculum is a very grievous lack indeed. All sincere Christians agree on this. Catholics feel exactly as you do. They deplore strongly the system of education which shuts out religious and moral instructions and training from the life of the pupil. Perhaps the most striking illustration of the importance which Catholics attach to moral and religious training may be seen in the fact that last year the Catholic citizens of the United States spent thirty-six millions of dollars in maintaining parish schools in which training in religion and morality is provided.

Catholics do not antagonize the public schools. They appreciate all that the public school does for the secular education of the children. But they feel that the public schools do not go far enough. And so they build and maintain. At the enormous cost I have given, the schools of their own.

So far as I can find out, the Catholics are the only ones that offer a practical solution to this problem. Because of our mixed population, because of the variety of creeds and denominations, it is impossible to teach religion in the public schools. You say it ought to be done, you say that we all ought to be broad enough, and liberal enough to allow it; but I fail to see any practical step toward it. Now here is the solution of the problem, so far as Catholic thought on the subject is known to me.

Let the public schools continue as they are for those who wish them to be absolutely secular; but the state or the community recognize the work of education done for the state's benefit, by any church that wishes to erect a school of its own, where religion as well as secular education may be given.

It will be said at once—this is a scheme to get public money for church work. Catholics say "No." Let the state set a standard of efficiency in secular education, in arithmetic, English, etc., and if any given school comes up to the standard let the state pay for that education, because it is for the benefit of the state.

main before election day.

Applications for such meetings have come to the chairman of the state committee from all parts of the state, showing that interest is general and earnest. At the rallies which have been held the attendance has been paid the speakers has proved that the people want this full established facts, definite proposals and straight cut pledges of performance. That is what they are getting from the Republican candidates and speakers and the result is a gain of Republican votes from every meeting held.

Senator Robert P. Bass, the Republican gubernatorial candidate, is maintaining the wonderful record as a campaigner which he made before the primary election and his speeches as a nominee are just as strong, truthful and telling as before he won his victory.

To his support as speakers at the various rallies have come leaders of all branches of the party, sincerely eager to do all in their power for party success in November. A united Republican party, working with a will for honest victory, can have no result but great success.—Concord Monitor.

The Perfection Oil Heater quickly gives heat, and with one filling of the font burns steadily for nine hours, without smoke or smell. An indicator always shows the amount of oil in the font. The filler-cap, put in like a cork in a bottle, is attached by a chain. This heater has a cool handle and a damper top.

The Perfection Oil Heater has an automatic-locking flame spreader, which prevents the wick from being turned high enough to smoke, and is easy to remove and drop back, so the wick can be quickly cleaned. The burner body or gallery cannot become wedged and can be unscrewed in an instant for reworking. The Perfection Oil Heater is finished in Japan or nickel, is strong, durable, well-made, built for service, and yet light and ornamental.

PORTSMOUTH BOYS AND GIRLS

Going to Music Hall to See Drama of the Life of David

Next Thursday evening, Oct. 20, the Herald will have as guests at the performance of Wright Lorimer in "The Shepherd King" at Music Hall, 25 of the brightest boys and girls of the public and parochial schools of Portsmouth and vicinity. They will be selected by merit. In substance, the 25 boys and girls who write the best essays on the story of "David, the Shepherd King," will be given tickets enabling them to see the performance. The essays are limited to 150 words, so that it is an easy matter for any child to enter the race with an excellent chance of winning. The "Shepherd King" has been called the second Ben Hur. It is founded upon the story of the early life of David and is of exceptionally high moral tone. The production which has been made by William A. Brady, the famous manager, is one of the most elaborate on the stage today and will delight little visitors beyond measure. The seats they will occupy are those which are being sold for $1.50 at the box office and this sum is more than the fathers and mothers of many of the children can afford to pay; the full performance will be a treat that the school children could not otherwise enjoy.

Conditions of the Contest

Each contestant must be a regularly enrolled student of the Portsmouth public or parochial schools and must write his or her name, age, grade, teacher's name, the name of the school and the class to which he or she belongs and his or her address upon the upper left hand corner of the paper. Only one side of the paper should be written on. The writing should be as neat and legible as the writer can make it, as neatness and legibility will count in judging the papers. The essays when complete should be mailed or taken to the Herald and addressed to "The Shepherd King Editor." All essays must be in the office not later than Tuesday noon, Oct. 18. The names will be announced the next day. Each essay should be about 150 words in length, although a few more or less will not necessarily disqualify the writer. The shorter the better. The writers of the best papers will receive tickets.

Judged According to Grades

In this contest it must be understood that the papers will be judged according to the grades of the writer. An essay from a pupil in the sixth grade will not be judged in comparison with those from pupils in the seventh or eighth grades, but will be placed with the other sixth grade papers and the best of them selected. Anyone giving false information as to his grade or school will be disqualified and barred from further participation in the contest. By this system members of the lower grades will have just as good a chance as those from the upper grades.

The synopsis of the story is as follows:

Story of "The Shepherd King"

"The Shepherd King" deals with a period 3000 years distant. The central figure is David, and the story begins at the home of his father, near Bethlehem, where the simple life of the shepherd led, who afterwards becomes king, is shown in its primitive surroundings. Here comes Prince Jonathan and the Princess Michal, bearing a command from their father, Saul, the mad king, commanding David to play and sing before him at his encampment. The second act shows the Israelitish camp at Elah, which has been harassed by the Philistines for 40 days and nights. Goliath, the mighty giant of Gath, has repeatedly challenged any of Saul's army to meet him in combat, but no one has been found who is brave enough to go against him. The capture of a notorious Edomite while engaged in an act of treachery, brings on Saul one of his mad spells, and he raises his javelin to strike the traitor to the earth, when David, by his singing and playing, charms away the king's anger and restores his reason. Again comes the fierce challenge of Goliath. David offers to meet him with his sling and the death of the boasting monster at the hands of the shepherd forms the climax of the act.

Act three is the throne room of the palace of Gibeon, two years later. Saul has begun to fear and hate David and a great jealousy takes possession of his heart. His eldest daughter, Merab, having learned from the prophet, Samuel, that David is to become king at the death of Saul, now seeks his love, but David is constant to Michal, whose life he has saved and whom the king has promised for his wife. He is also comforted by the strong friendship of Jonathan, who has learned that of which David has not yet dreamed, that at his father's death, it is David and not he who is to become king. In an outburst of anger, Saul attempts to slay David but his life is saved by little band maiden Achish who rushes between them and receives the javelin's thrust. David turns upon the king and denounces him for his wickedness and amid the flashing of the lightning and the rolling of thunder of the gathering storm, that proclaims Jehovah's wrath, he renounces his command and rushes out into the night.

The first scene in the fourth act takes place in the cave of the Witch of Endor, six months later, where Saul has come to learn something of the future. The spirit of Samuel appears to him and foretells his death and that of his son. The last scene is in the courtyard of the palace the next day. Saul and his army have been routed, his son slain, and himself mortally wounded. The arrival of David turns defeat into victory. He is reunited to Michal and upon Saul's death, ascends the throne.

The Hebrews Celebrate Their Day of Atonement Today

Today is Yom Kippur, the Hebrew day of atonement, and one of the oldest and most rigidly observed religious celebrations among the Jews. The observance began at sunset yesterday, and will last until the stars can be seen in the sky tonight. It is a day of prayer, penitence and fasting, and is very widely kept. It was ushered in with the celebration of the Kol Nidro last night, a rite observed by orthodox and reformed synagogues alike.

ODD FELLOWS IN CONVENTION

Elect Officers and Transact Much Important Business.

The annual convention of the New Hampshire grand lodge of Independent Order of Odd Fellows, was held at Manchester on Wednesday and the 67th annual session opened with a large attendance of Odd Fellows from all parts of the state.

At 8:00 o'clock there was an assembling of the forces of both the members of the grand lodge and of the Rebekah assembly in the main hall of Masonic building, at which time His Excellency Mayor Eugene Reed extended the greetings and a cordial welcome in the name of the city.

Past Grand Master, William E. Felch presided, and in introducing the mayor referred to the magnitude of the order, the spirit of loyalty to its great mission and of the force and inspiration coming through the channel of the Rebekah organization.

Mayor Reed paid high tribute to Odd Fellowship and its associated affiliations, his remarks throughout being punctuated with frequent applause.

Grand Master Frederic E. Small of Rochester, as able a speaker as he has been executive head, responded, expressing the gratitude felt by the organization for the unsparing courtesy of the city and admiration entertained for Mayor Reed, who for eight years has been its official head. With a final word by the presiding officer, the meeting was adjourned, the grand lodge immediately getting under way in the main hall, and the assembly convening in the banquet hall below.

The business of the 67th annual session of the grand lodge was inaugurated at 9 o'clock. Grand Master Frederic E. Small of Rochester, presiding.

Following the opening exercises came the reports of the grand master, secretary and treasurer and that of Grand Representative Charles S. Emerson of Milford, who recounted in interesting facts concerning the proceedings of the Sovereign Grand Lodge at Atlanta.

Grand Master Frederic E. Small referred to the fact that from a nucleus of five members who instituted American Odd Fellowship in 1819 there are now enlisted under the banner of the three links approximately 2,000,000 good men and true, who are bound together by an indissoluble chain to visit the sick, relieve the distressed, bury the dead and educate the orphans. He made an interesting review of the work of the year and commended the body for the cooperation which has been given.

The reports of the secretary and treasurer were replete with interesting and important statistical information. There are reported 104 lodges in the state, no charter having been surrendered during the year. The membership June 30 of this year was 15,381.

The total amount paid for current expenses during the year was $60,029.64; the total receipts from the subordinate lodges $128,410.13. The Hampshire grand lodge of Independent Order of Odd Fellows, was held at Manchester on Wednesday and the 67th annual session opened with a large attendance of Odd Fellows from all parts of the state.

LITERARY NOTES

Scientists Who Die for Knowledge.

If peace hath her victories no less renowned than war, then Dr. Mirhan Kassabian, who died in Philadelphia on July 12, was a hero of perhaps greater caliber than the heroes of many wars. For Dr. Kassabian died of skin cancer brought on by X-ray burns in his marvellous work as one of the foremost specialists in America.

For years, unknown to many thousands of sufferers he was treating Dr. Kassabian, slowly dying from the effects of the very rays that were being directed by him to the cure of others, went about his daily work.

Last year it was found that the skin cancer induced by the rays had spread up the left arm and had caused the enlargement of the glands under his arm. These glands were removed by an operation by Dr. Chalmers Da Costa, professor of surgery in the Jefferson Medical College in Philadelphia. The wounds did not heal and a second operation consisting of the removal of the larger muscles on the left side of the chest, was performed four months ago. After this operation on the pectoral muscles it was found that the whole left side had been affected, and his condition was pronounced critical. About ten days before his death he went to the hospital to have his chest dressed and while there collapsed. He never left the hospital alive.

The fact of the matter is that the field of radioactivity has furnished more than its quota of martyrs to science. Professor Curie, who with his wife, Madame Curie, won a place in the history of science by the discovery of radium was perhaps saved from a martyr's lingering death by the street accident which cut short his life. His journey to London with the first tube of radium ever exhibited there resulted in a wound in the chest that took months to heal, for the radium emanation passed through his waistcoat and underclothes and burned his chest to the bone. His experiments with radium scorched his hands and arms which were almost paralyzed to the elbows and rendered unrepresentable to strangers. From "Martyrs of Science" in Technical World Magazine for November.

Music as a Medicine.

According to men of high medical authority it has been decided and agreed that many of the ailments of mankind pack up their grips and leave them subjected to the strains of sweet music. Melancholia is dreadfully afraid of a lively air and most disorders of the "every day" sort take to their heels as "tigers before Teddy" when the melody of a cheerful song is heard.

Then banish the doctors, and away with medicines, for the dords and music of the jolly good song, "Dear Old East Side" is to go free as a feature of next Sunday's New York World. This is the song that has helped draw crowds to Hammerstein's Victoria Theatre, New York, where Gus Edwards' "Song Review" is in full swing.

To be sure of getting this rejuvenating song order next Sunday's World from newsmen in advance.

BOSTON & MAINE ANNUAL MEETING

SAME BOARD OF DIRECTORS ELECTED AND AT LATER MEETING DO MUCH BUSINESS.

The annual meeting of the Boston and Maine railroad, the first under the presidency of Charles S. Mellen, was held in the board of trade rooms at Lawrence on Wednesday. The present board of 19 directors, including former President Lucius Tuttle, was unopposed for re-election, and as the annual report had previously been given to the stockholders and the public, the meeting was without special interest.

A subsequent meeting of the board of directors was held in Boston at the directors rooms and considerable business was transacted.

At the directors' meeting, former President Lucius Tuttle was elected chairman of the board of directors, a new office, which will make Mr. Tuttle still in a large measure actively interested in the affairs of the road.

E. A. Ryder was reelected clerk of the corporation and H. E. Fisher re-elected treasurer. Charles S. Mellen is president.

CAPT. R. E. PEARY

NORTH POLE DISCOVERER PROMOTED TO CAPTAIN—STILL WITHOUT HONORS IN OWN COUNTRY

Washington, Oct. 13.—Commander Robert E. Peary, Arctic explorer, will be promoted to the rank of captain in the corps of naval civil engineers on Oct. 20.

This is the result of the retirement of Capt. U. S. G. White. Naval orders to this effect were issued by the navy department Tuesday.

Rear Admiral John B. Milton, commandant of the naval training station in San Francisco, will also be placed on the retired list on Oct. 20.

New York, Oct. 13.—The Times comments editorially on Commander Peary's promotion as follows:

"By the retirement of Civil Engineer U. S. G. White, Commander Robert E. Peary becomes today captain in the United States navy. It is not a promotion for distinguished services. Had Mr. Peary remained in the routine service of the government, instead of making his name immortal among explorers, he would have been advanced further than the rank of captain."

"The man whom Emperors and Kings, scientists, the public and the press in 11 capitals of Europe have delighted to honor for achievements that emblazon his in history is still without honor in his own land."

RIFLEMEN AT STATE SHOOT

START IN A THREE DAYS' SES-SION WITH A GALE OF WIND TO CONTEND WITH.

Manchester, Oct. 12.—With the wind blowing a gale out of the northwest, and cold enough to chill a rifleman's fingers to numbness before he could complete half a score, the annual state shoot of the New Hampshire National Guard opened Wednesday morning at the Manchester Battalion rifle range at Massabesic, and will continue through today and Friday. It is the first state shoot held since 1908, as lack of funds made it necessary to omit the shoot last year, and the riflemen showed their interest in the resumption of these competitions in the eagerness with which they broke into the game as soon as the targets were open.

Over 200 officers and men had reported for duty or as contestants in the individual matches. In addition to these officials, assistants and shooters, Quartermaster Sergeant Oscar G. Lagrequist had a mixed force of 50 men, civilians and soldiers, employed as markers and scorers, and on other necessary work about the grounds, and Capt. A. A. Blakeley of the commissary department had another force of workers employed about the open air kitchen and mess tent. While not many spectators visited the range in the morning, a few enthusiasts were on hand to see the work even before the pits were opened, and the field presented a scene of bustle and activity.

But one match was on the program Wednesday—the State Individual—but this was enough to keep all interested when once it was under way. It was shot at 600 yards, and was open to all members of the National Guard. The men shot as individuals, regardless of team affiliations, and each contestant was allowed 10 counting shots at each range. At the 600 yards range each rifleman had to open with two sighting shots, which could not be counted in the score, a fact which disappointed some who opened with centres. Over 100 riflemen have entered for this match. The prizes are a valuable field glass and a dozen silver knives and forks. The officers of the encampment and shoot are as follows: Executive officer, Gen. William Sullivan, Manchester; chief range officer, Maj. Arthur J. Cummings, Nashua; statistical officer and post adjutant, Capt.

Winifred D. Davis, Manchester; post surgeon, Maj. Norman B. Webster, Manchester; post quartermaster, Maj. E. Ray Shaw, Nashua; post commissary, Capt. Albert A. Blakeley, Manchester; range officers, Maj. M. J. Healy, Manchester; Capt. M. H. Deagan, Nashua; Major Chancey B. Hoyt, Portsmouth; Capt. Wilkie I. Elliott, Nashua; Capt. F. T. Harriman, Portsmouth; Lieut. Arthur E. Tinkham, Lieut. Thomas J. Conway, Lieut. James J. Shea and Lieut. Owen Garrahan, Manchester; Lieut. Joseph Lavertue, Laconia.

General Sullivan and most of the Manchester officers and details were on the range at 7 a. m. and the others reported at intervals through the forenoon as train and trolley accommodations permitted. The working force was started in making pits ready, etc., and Capt. Blakeley's kitchen force began preparations for dinner. Two field ranges were set up and a field incinerator was put into operation to care for the swill. The signal corps men were on the ground yesterday and overhauled the telephones, but they were gone over again this morning, as the high wind was straining the wires.

Shooting was started at 10 o'clock at the 600-yards range. The wind was then blowing 25 to 30 miles an hour and was swinging between the "10 o'clock" and the "11 o'clock" quarters of the compass. Sergt. J. H. Holden of the cavalry fired the first shot and scored a bullseye, but as it was a sighting shot it could not be scored. Others fell in rapidly until the firing points at 600 yards were filled, two men shooting at each target and alternating in firing.

The Signal Corps detail comprises Sergt. C. R. Lund and Privates Geo. P. Pushee, Jesse M. Pushee, Fred Bywater and Elzevir M. Francis. Major Webber has a large hospital tent pitched on the grounds with the following detail from the Hospital Corps on duty: Sergt. Robert A. Luckie, Privs. J. J. Buckley, J. J. McDermott and Florence O'Leary.

ELLSWORTH'S ZOUAVES HAVE LAST REUNION

Chicago, Oct. 12.—Eight grizzled warriors, survivors of the once famous United States Zouave Cadets, of which Col. Elmer E. Ellsworth, the first officer killed in the civil war, was the original commander, held a banquet Monday night here. It was their last reunion. The roll was called for the last time, and never again will the famous Chicago Zouaves all meet under the old flag. Very few are left in the ranks. Once they were 120 strong, and there was not a better drilled corps in the nation. They claimed the championship and the claim was not disputed. They traveled all through the East and South in 1860 seeking competitors to march beside them. They went to West Point and won added praise.

The youngest man present at the banquet was Frank E. Yates, sixty-eight years old. Col. P. Dwight Lafin, the highest commanding officer to survive, sat at the head of the table. He is eighty-one years old.

SPEED FIGURES OF THE DRAYTON

Rockland, Me., Oct. 12.—The fastest mile made on Tuesday in the standardization trial of the torpedo boat destroyer Drayton, in her official acceptance trials, was at the rate of 32.44 knots an hour. This was half a knot less than her sister ship Paulding made on her fastest standardization run. On the other hand, it exceeds the record of the destroyers Roe, Terry and Perkins, also of the old burning class.

Of 26 runs made over the mile course, five were at the best possible speed, and their average was 32.64 knots. The speed of these runs was as follows: 32.45, 33.16, 32.11, 33.44 and 32.36. The trial was followed by the steering and anchor tests, which were reported as extremely satisfactory. The conditions for the trial were a strong breeze and a strong, but regular current.

Douglas Fairbanks in "The Cub."

Douglas Fairbanks, the young star who has won his right to stellar honors by consistently clever performances in "As Ye Sow," "The Man of the Hour," "A Gentleman from Mississippi" and other productions made during the past year by William A. Brady, has at last come into his own in "The Cub," a satirical comedy by Thompson Buchanan, author of "A Woman's Way." "The Cub" ended a five week's run in Boston Saturday night, and began a short road tour through New England prior to its New York premiere in late November. Young Fairbanks and the entire original company of 27 principals will be seen here at Music Hall next Monday. The story of "The Cub" centers about a fifteen dollar a week reporter just out of college and on his first assignment.

Steve Oldham (Fairbanks) welcomes the task gaily, all unsuspecting of the dangers in store. At the time of his arrival among the moonshiners the feud has broken out again with renewed vigor. It began when Judge White and old Noah Rendow pastured two hogs in common. One grew fat and the other remained lean. Doubt concerning the ownership of the portly porker led to the digging of 21 graves, not counting that of the succulent pig which died of hog cholera. "The Cub" arrives on a donkey loaded with nitrocellulose, a suit case and a hat box which contain evening clothes, a silk hat, patent leather pumps and the other trimmings of a luxuriously reared college boy. He is promptly invited to join the Whites and is much impressed by their arguments, a formidable array of long barreled revolvers and Winchester. He can not resist the charms of Alice Rendow, however, and recklessly insists on meeting this fascinating maiden of the Rendow faction. Not only is the beautiful girl a sister of Jack Rendow, the young leader of the moonshiners, but she is also the life-long object of devotion of Tilden McField, known far and wide as the worst killer in the mountains. Thus it seems at the end of the act reporter were inevitable when he finds himself in Tildens cabin under sentence of being shot at sun-up.

But of course Steve escapes and of course he wins the girl of his choice. And he does it as he does everything that falls to his lot from start to finish—in a fashion that causes his audience to convulse with merriment. In the long supporting company gathered together by Mr. Brady are such well known actors as Miss Millicent Evans who brings to the part of Alice a winsome charm of her own which quite excuses the cub reporter in becoming infatuated with her. Miss Blanche Latell as a human scare-crow who seeks affection from Steve gives an indelible performance. Miss Louise Rial as a rheumatic old mountain woman, who mutters prophecies and is regarded as being possessed of supernatural powers adds to the strength of the feminine portion of the cast. Among the men are Joseph Greene as McField; Charles Stanley as the country judge; James A. Marcus as a prosperous coroner; R. A. Wessells, Elmer Both, Ernest Baxter, Charles MacDonald and E. H. Bender.

TALK OF MR. ROOT AS CHIEF JUSTICE
Washington, Oct. 12.—Gossip in some official quarters in Washington is busy with the name of Senator Root in connection with the chief justiceship of the supreme court. It is said that Mr. Root's conference with the President at Beverly Hills in connection with this matter. According to rumors in circulation here, members of the court themselves are anxious that the President should appoint Mr. Root. While they are said to be pleased with the selection of Mr. Hughes to be an associate justice, the justices do not relish the idea of so young a man as Justice Hughes being placed over them.

The November Smart Set
Mrs. Helen R. Martin contributes the complete novel to the November number of the Smart Set. Mrs. Martin, who is author of "The Crossways" and "Tillie, a Mennonite Maid" has written for the Smart Set, a story of a small city in Pennsylvania where is seen in miniature the life of the metropolis. The story is that of a young bride who is suddenly set down among strangers, and whose married life takes on a complex and varied phase, the heroine being forced to follow a devious line to the final working out of the situation.

Building and they are of the very best. The very latest inventions of Thomas A. Edison including animated pictures right up to the minute, always attract crowds as does the wonderful process of making shoes. Sixty of them never shown before, with their crews of skilled mechanics are seen busily at work. A model printing plant shows every detail of how a daily newspaper is gotten out. Paintings and statuary valued at $1,000,000 are on exhibition in the art gallery and in Paul Revere Hall adjoining lectures on domestic science are given by Bertha Palmer Haffner of Chicago and colored motion pictures with talks on the cultivation and marketing of coffee and tea supply an excellent and instructive entertainment given by Charles E. Greeley. Edna Frances Simmons' orchestra plays morning, afternoon and evening. These are only a few of the many features of the great exposition. Saturdays, up to six o'clock children under 12 years of age, are admitted for ten cents. All of the attractions are free and there are no charges for seats. The exposition will positively close Saturday, Oct. 23.

AVOID CHOLERA

European Epidemics May Affect Our Fleet's Foreign Cruise

Washington, Oct. 12.—The problem of where to send the Atlantic fleet for the winter cruise is seriously bothering the officials of the navy department.

The department is keeping advised on the cholera situation through regular reports. The bureau of medicine and surgery experts have been in conference with the public health officials and it is certain that no ships of the Atlantic fleet will be sent to any ports where the men will be endangered.

The cold climate makes northern Europe less attractive to the naval officer. The English channel may be substituted for some other section as the scene of some of the maneuvers which constitute part of the functions of a European cruise. Portsmouth, Brest or Bordeaux are possible. At Bordeaux the larger ships probably would have to anchor further out than at some ports. The question will not be finally determined for a while.

The cruise is regarded as essential to the operations of the navy, for the maneuvers must be held somewhere and the glamour of a foreign trip appeals particularly to the enlisted men. In that respect the trip, with its days of liberty for the men at various ports, promotes both enlistments and efficiency.

Several changes have been made in the formation of the Atlantic fleet, growing out of the recent changes among division officers. Effective October 20, the present third division of the Atlantic fleet will become the fourth division and the present fourth division will become the third. This will make the division commanders as follows: Rear Admirals Schroeder (commander-in-chief), first division; Vreeland, second; Murdock, third, and Howard, fourth.

Local Team Certainly Did Well

The football men of the U. S. S. Montana were handed a surprise in the defeat of Wednesday by the Portsmouth boys. The local team considering the small amount of practice they had and playing together in a game where the men were hardly acquainted with each other is what can be called a good day's work. The navy men are looking for a return game and think they can make the score read in their favor the next time.

Religious Matters Concerning Court Martialled Men

The need of installing a Catholic clergyman at the naval station to minister to the officers and men aboard ships and the naval prisoners on the ships and in the big yard prison is to be set forth to Secretary George Von L. Meyer of the navy department. That a permanent chaplain be assigned to duty will be recommended by the men by interested Catholics and probably by the clergy.

It is said among the men that many of the prisoners constantly express their desire to see a Catholic priest. The Rev. Edward J. Walsh and the Rev. James E. White of this city frequently visit the yard and prison, but their time is principally devoted to their parish.

About 100 of the prisoners at the station are estimated to be Catholics. A great majority of the prisoners are confined for short terms as punishment for transgressing the simple naval rules. Clergymen considered those men to be easily influenced and speedily corrected of their faults by brief counsel. As the commanders of the ships usually permit the sailors to come to this city for religious services the need of a Catholic chaplain is mostly for the prisoners.

The priests in this city visit the yard at Easter and enable the men to conform to the church law of receiving communion during the Easter time. Mass has been said at the station, and at one time a missionary of the order of St. Vincent de Paul, founded in honor of the missionary who ministered to seafaring men, conducted a mission, but the visits of priests are not made at stated intervals.

The navy department contemplates the construction of a chapel in the prison.—Manchester Union.

KILLED BY GAS

Seaman of Montana Disappears— Later Dies at Newport

A seaman by the name of Brewer, of the U. S. S. Montana, aged 23 years has been reported to the commanding officer of the ship, Captain John G. Quinby, as dead at Newport. The last seen of Brewer was when he attended a football game at the Killory grounds about two weeks ago between the teams from the Montana and the Tennessee, where he had some kind of a mix up with a Tennessee man over the merits of the opposing teams. Following the conflict Brewer disappeared and on the following day turned up at Newport. According to information received here, Brewer and a companion were assigned to a room in a hotel and the following morning Brewer was found unconscious and the gas flowing freely from an open jet. He was taken to the naval hospital where he later passed away. He was a western man and has two brothers among the crew of the Montana.

MORE SOLDIERS FOR THE FORTS

Cost Artillery Chief Wants Larger Corps for This Duty

Washington, October 13—Brig. Gen. Arthur Murray, chief of the coast artillery, U. S. A., in his annual report to the war department strongly advocates an increased detail of artillery troops to man the coast defenses of this government.

"In time of war he says, 'we must have at each place liable to attack such a number of coast artillery troops that they will be sufficient not only to form a full manning detail but to maintain a full manning detail, allowing for absentees, sick and wounded. And in case of a long continued attack or siege it is more than probable that for some of the elements, if not for all, it will be necessary to maintain more than one full manning detail in order to provide relief."

The report shows that the actual strength of the coast artillery corps on July 1, 1910, was 634 officers and 18,109 enlisted men. The authorized strength on that date was 672 officers and 19,321 enlisted men.

Means More Men at New Castle. This paper a few days ago announced the plan to station more companies of coast artillery at the fort in New Castle. These will be part of this general increase recommended by General Murray.
